

Earth Day, 2009

April 22nd

Join the celebration and discussion!

To celebrate the day, local schools will be working collaboratively with people around the world to produce and air a live webcast which will last for the entire 24 hours of the GMT (Greenwich Mean Time) day! Locally, the conversation begins Tuesday, April 21, at 8 pm EDT and continues until April 22, 8 pm.

What is a webcast? It is an interactive broadcast of audio, and sometimes video, on the internet. This webcast will also allow for audience participation via a live chat room and/or skype calls. It is intended to be a conversation about our Earth.

How do I get to the webcast?

Connect to the internet and go to <http://earthbridges.net/studio>.

Earthcast Studio

This is the main Earthcast Studio. For those with enough bandwidth, click play on the UStream video to listen and watch. For those with slower connections, click on one of the Earthbridges Channel media player icons. The Live Status Page is here. More Listening Info & Help

Login

Please enter a username. Password is not required

Username:

Password:

Room:

Forgotten your password?
Create a new user account

WORLD BRIDGES CHAT ROOM

Off Air MENU

Earthbridges Channel

Stream Status

Click on the Ustream play button for video (if being used) OR click on a media player for audio below the black box that will work for your computer, for example iTunes, RealPlayer or Windows Media Player. If you want to follow along and/or join the chat, type in a name for the Earthbridges room. (You may to need switch it to say Earthbridges, not EdTechTalk.) No password is required.

What's the schedule of events? The hourly schedule is located at <http://earthbridges.wikispaces.com/Earth+Day+2009>.

- 9:30 am – 10:00 am EDT - Little Harbour School, Portsmouth (Hosted by Molly Green)
- 11:00 am – 11:30 am EDT - Dondero School, Portsmouth (Hosted by Linda George)
- Noon – 1:00 pm EDT - Rye Jr. High School, Rye (Webcaster - Sheila Adams)

More details? Go to <http://tinyurl.com/earthdayNH>